Not long since, with tears coursing down his majestic beard, he told me it was inexcusable in Grant to give Democratic New York on our North a cabinet officer, to do the same for Democratic New Jersey on our East, and Rebel Maryland on our South, while Pennsylvania, always true to Republicanism, was left out in the cold. In that conversation he spoke elequently of the fit-ness of John W. The Demo crats boarded the train at the edge of town and took possession of them, representing themselves as Radicals. The negroes divulged the whole plot. The negroes were burried to the Democratic headquarters and detained until warrants could be issued against the leaders, who were forthwith arrested under the State law, and are now in prison. Their offense is a gross one against the laws of the State, and will send them to the penitentiary. With the exception of the sentence which I have italicized the foregoing quotation is literally true; but the impression which it is intended to make is totally and radically untrue. It is latter, who is now in California, was so netoriously untrue that, were its publication limited to Wilson county, where the facts are known, it would be unnecessary to contradict it, but as it is patently intend ed for effect in other portions of the district, I must trespass on your space sufficiently to give the true version, promisir that I state nothing which I do not know to

The County Convention which met here on Monday was composed of delegates elect-ed at a primary election held in the various districts on the preceding Saturday. Among other questions submitted to the voters, they were requested to express their preference for Congressman—and while some of the districts held no election, in not one gentleman. In many of the districts the voters were so unanimous and their confidence n the action of the convention was so complete that they did not go through the form of giving expression to the preference which they entertain. Of the thirty-three delegates composing the convention, I assert that at least thirty were and are supporters of Col. Goliaday. In this civil dis-trict, for instance, which had six delegates n the county convention, every man of hem was for Golladay, and was elected as Golladay man. If your correspondent, who thinks "but few seemed particularly auxious to espouse the cause of either one of the Congressional aspirants," was pres-ent during the session of the convention. he must have persistently kept both his eyes and ears closely shut.

"The delegates are wholly uninstructed." That is true, so far as it means that no formal instructions were given them by the County Convention—but the people them-selves have already instructed their representatives in a manner too clear to be mised that a majority of the members, weary of waiting for the return of the committee on the selection of delegates, and unsuspecting of any attempt to defeat the known will of the people, had left, taking it for granted that their presence was not necessary to insure the passage of a resolution which, as everybody knew, ninetenths of the voters of the county desired passed. He should have stated that the opponents of Col. Golladay, delegates and ly remained; that if a resolution endorsing to Gallatin to vote for him had been introduced in the Convention while all were present it would have carried by an overwhelming majority; that, while such a resolution was preparing, a motion to ad-

Golladay's popularity with his fellow-citizens and to augur ill for the future advancement of the few who are endeavoring so strenuously to defeat the known and expressed will of the people. This would have been the whole truth. I was a delegate to the convention, instructed by my constituents to vote for Golladay, was present during the whole session, saw all the manceuvres, and

Among the unfortunates was Mr. John Bell, who had every house on his place blown down, besides losing all of his tobacco. Mr. John Clark's residence was blown to pieces and an unfinished one lifted up and placed on the opposite side of the road. Frank Cayce lost two berge barns with their contents of twenty agres of fine tobacco. Mr. Roy Cayce's losses were also heavy, though I have not learned the amount. Messrs. Burrel Ritter, Geo. ALABAMA AND CHATTANGOGA BAILROAD. Statement of Gen. W. T. Wofford, the Agent for Georgia.

Burned, in Order to Hold the Road.

The Chattanooga Times of Oct. 4, contains the following statement of Gen. W T. Wolford, agent for the State of Geogia for the possession of the Alabama and pointed, and before Judge Harralson arrived I wrote to Gov. Smith for lastrucdistrict in which an election was had was | tions. He replied that I should hold the there a solitary vote cast against Hon. Ed- | road at all hazards until further orders from ward I. Golladay. On the contrary, with a him. As you are aware, I was connected unanimity unparalleled as it was gratifying, with the road in two capacities: first, as every voter who expressed a preference in the Agent of the State of Georgia, who had Congressional race gave his suffrage for that | seized the road under her statutory mortgage, and secondly, as Receiver under an order of the Superior Court of Dade county, on the application of the State of Alabama, and by the consent of the attaching creditors. My connection with the offices here was under contract with Col. Gindrat the Receiver appointed by Judge Key.

"When Judge Harralson arrived here, went out to the depot and found him i possession. Waiving any questions of offistructions from Gov. Smith, and assured him that I was very anxious to have the road in operation for the benefit of the people, and urged him to go with me to Atlanta that night (Monday, Sept. 30,) and see Gov. Smith and make some arrange-

"Judge Harralson replied that he could not go, as he was compelled to go off at once to hold his courts, but that as soon as Mr. Stanton came he would attend to the

"Mr. Stanton came that night, and I understood that he was going to run a train taken, and I imagine that but few of them out. I told several people who asked me will attempt to disregard or override their about it, that the train would not be permitsovereign will. If your anonymous correspondent had desired to tell the whole told Mr. Whitney that I must have the ruth, he should have stated how it hap- tolling stock turned over to me which struct the delegates. He should have stat- and he agreed to do this. I also said that I was willing to co-operate with them in any way so as to secure the running of the road, by leasing the road in Georgia, or by running my train in Georgia to connect with theirs, and asked them not to attempt to run their trains through Georgia. When they insisted on running their trains I showed my orders and asked them if they would send me to Trenton. Mr. Whitney agreed to do so, but the train was so late in getting ready that I got not delegates, persistently and unanimous- a hack and went down there. I had telegraphed the Governor for additional instructions, and he replied at once for me to stop all trains, and to apply to the Sheriff of Dade for a posse. When I got to Trenton I showed the Sheriff my orders, and he summoned a posse and stopped the train next "While I was at Trenton Atterney General Hammond came to Chattanooga and sent for me to meet him. I did not like to leave, but finally did, and went with him to Atlanta. There I saw Gov. Smith, who repeated his instructions to hold on to question in the unfairest manner; and that the road. I told him I wanted no conflict with the Federal authorities. He said that the conduct of the Receivers was the most igh-handed assumption of power he ever eard of. They had never even asked him for possession, nor made any offer to settle, t attempted to ride over the State when she had possession under her statute, which was recognized by the court of bankruptey. The State of Georgia was not a party to any law suit, and could not be made one without her consent. Gov. Smith told me that he did not want any conflict and could not have any, but that he considered me a prudent man, and would leave the matter wholly in my hands with the instructions to hold the road against all opposition and allow no trains to run; if it was necessary to do that, to tear up every rail within the State of Georgia, and burn every bridge!

"These are my instructions and I am compelled to carry them out. I want the road to run for the accommodation of the people, and am willing to lease the part of it in Georgia to the Receivers, or I will put on my train and run it to the State line in connection with their trains," These are almost Gen. Wofford's exact words, and our readers will see from them that Gov. Smith is satisfied of his own rights and those of his State, and proposes to maintain them at all hazards. We learn from other sources that Gov. Smith telegraphed to an attorney in this city that he intends to hold the road if it took every able bodied man in the State of Georgia, between the ages of 18 and 45.

Gen. Wofford also said that the people of Dade county were not to blame, as they were only obeying the orders of the Gov-Gen. Wofford farther stated that he had been served with an injunction in his capacity as Receiver for the Superior Court of Dade, which he should obey, but no process could affect him as the represents tive of the State of Georgia. We hope for the best, however. Our old friend Capt. G. W. Kldd, a con luctor before the war on the Nashville and Decatur railroad, and latterly on the Nashville and Northwestern railroad, has accept
